Synopsis

This volume contains four of the most important and famous plays of the American theatre. All were written by Arthur Miller within a ten-year period which began with his first Broadway hit in 1947: 'With the production of All My Sons,' wrote Brooks Atkinson in the New York Times, 'the theatre has acquired a genuine new talent.' This hit was followed by an even greater play: Death of a Salesman. 'A great play of our day', wrote the New York Herald Tribune and the play has gone on to become the classic American tragedy of Willy Loman, a salesman who becomes disillusioned with the American dream. The Crucible(1953) was produced during the McCarthy era and became a parable of the witch-hunting practises of a government rooting out Communists. A View from the Bridge(1955) concerns the lives of longshoremen in the Brooklyn waterfront and has remained one of Miller's most produced plays. A Memory of Two Mondays, a one-act play, was written as a companion piece to A View from the Bridge. "The greatest American dramatist of our age" (Evening Standard)

Customer Reviews

This one volume collection of Arthur Miller's best known plays is very convenient for the first-time reader. It also contains a long detailed Introductionby the playwright for the benefit of those who are interested in the development of the plays in the mind of the writer. The plays are of outstanding quality and easily qualify Arthur Miller to be regarded as one of the greatest dramatists of the US.

Great

Of course, it's exactly what was expected: What else would be in a collection of Arthur Miller's plays?
